

The “adaptational packages” of ID creationists

- characterize major groups of plants and animals
- represent major adaptations to new conditions of life
- cannot be separated into simpler components without destroying the functional advantage to their possessors

These “adaptational packages” can only represent

“IRREDUCIBLE COMPLEXITY”

... meaning that they cannot evolve by known natural means, and so must be specially created by a Designer